ANNUAL REPORTS

OF THE

TOWN OFFICERS

OF

GREENFIELD, N. H.

FOR THE YEAR ENDING

MARCH 1, 1888.

PETERBORO:
TRANSCRIPT OFFICE, FARNUM AND SCOTT, PROPRIETORS.
1888.

SCHOOL REPORT.

With the close of the school year the Board of Education, into whose care our fellow citizens have confided their most sacred trust, submit the following account of work performed, with such recommendations as experience has taught them will best promote the advancement and usefulness of our schools. We appreciate fully the responsibility that devolves upon us as your servants, and cherish the warmest desire for the future prosperity of all our schools. All things considered, we believe the new school law is working out good results in this, that equally competent teachers and the same number of weeks schooling are given every child in town. In all things we have aimed to secure the best results from the limited resources at our command.

It has been the custom in years past to give a separate account of each school. We doubt, however, the utility of such a course, inasmuch as it is quite preferable to say pleasant things, and cover by the subtle cunning of rhetoric any defect or shortcoming, than to wound the feelings as well as mar the record presented for public examination.

TEACHERS.

Perfection is a goal not often attained in any occupation, and to assume that our teachers have reached the golden prize would be presuming conditions not often found in the realm of ordinary experience. Some teachers with a fine stock of knowledge, but with a sluggish and easy temperament, fail to appreciate the requirements of successful teaching; others engage in teaching as a matter of convenience, caring for little except the pay they receive, and fail to inspire that confidence and love for school work among their pupils which are productive of so much benefit.

The true teacher enters upon her work with no better scholarly attainments, but imbued with a clear conception of the needs of her vocation, and a thorough love for it, and seems to carry the school within herself. The most successful teachers are those who depend least on mere book questions and book answers, and who have constantly on hand a valuable fund of practical illustrations and training outside of the ordinary book lore; who teach subjects, and not books; whose daily life is an hourly "object lesson" in morals and manners; whose ready tact supplies the want of text books; whose cunning hand brings forth devices for illustration more effective than cabinets of costly apparatus, and who study the needs of each individual scholar and develop, as far as possible, each peculiar talent.

We believe as a whole our teachers have been competent, energetic, faithful. All had had experience and came to their work with well matured ideas of the requirements of the school room.

THE SCHOLARS.

As yet no royal road to knowledge has been found. Patient effort and continued application are the main essentials in the make-up of a successful school life. The true scholar is self reliant and eager to surmount obstacles by his own unaided resources. Close application and lucid reasoning are the prime motives of a vigorous mental development. The acquisition of knowledge is often obtained at great sacrifice of time and patient toil, but once obtained it remains a source of constant profit and pleasure to its possessor. In the main we believe the deportment of the scholars has been above that of the previous year, though a few minor exceptions have occurred which are much deplored. In general we believe a healthier sentiment for a higher and better standard of excellence has grown up among the young people of the town. Without exception, your school board have received uniform kindness and attention during their visits thereto.

ATTENDANCE.

If there is any one thing that demoralizes and renders our schools inefficient and valueless it is the tardiness, dismissals and absences so prevalent in this community. Yet we believe some improvement has been made in this respect over that of the preceding year. Fractional work begets carelessness and a dislike of study on the part of the pupil, and weakens the well laid plans of the teacher. It breaks the thread of reasoning from one subject to another, and lessens the resources of the teacher for the highest advancement of the scholar. Why is it that in all our business engagements nothing is left undone to make them successful, while in the most important work of life—that of training and educating the human mind—we are heedless and negligent. We commend this matter to your serious consideration, as no other calls with such loud appeals to the conscience and solicitude of all our citizens.

PARENTAL VISITATIONS.

It is too true that in the most important avocation in life, that of educating our children, the least personal investigation is made by our citizens. In our business affairs nothing is left undone that a personal inspection can devise to make them profitable. Parents are too apt to be careless and indifferent to this highest and noblest mission in life, that of educating and training the human mind, and we extend at this time to all our citizens an invitation to make a thorough inspection of our schools, that you may better know their needs and apply the proper remedy. By so doing you will create a greater interest in school work—and who is not interested in this matter—for the children of today are but the men and women of the morrow, and the legacy we leave them will be but the heritage of their usefulness as good citizens in the near future.

DISCIPLINE.

School master or school mistress does not fully describe the person who educates our children. He is a good disciplinarian. Indeed this is the main educational process, and the chief controlling influence that goes to make up successful school life. The true teacher enforces a rigid discipline that the school room may be quiet, and inspires his pupils with an enthusiasm that creates a love for study, and then teaches them how to study.

To be successful here the teacher must have the fullest support and sympathy of the parents, for these two elements must work in harmony, or confusion and discord will usurp the place where quiet and peace should reign. The discipline of study and of recitation are the most important perquisites that are necessary for successful schools; for correct habits of study obtain for the scholar the greatest good for the time expended, while that of recitation renders effective the work obtained by study by cultivating the power and habits of expression.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The School Board again wish to call the attention of our citizens to some much needed improvements. Nearly twenty dollars are yearly paid the town of Hancock for scholars in the West school. Would it not be better to center the district, erect new and suitable school buildings, and thus keep this money to be expended in town? The east part of the town is also sadly in need of new school buildings. Something must be done here, either by making repairs or building new.

Our continued impression is that we are much in need of new school maps, charts, globes, and such other apparatus as are needed to make our school work more effective.

In conclusion we would commend the cause of education to the careful scrutiny of our citizens who believe it of paramount importance, and hope that such liberality will attend your deliberation as will tend to elevate and broaden the usefulness of our schools and be a source of pride to our citizens.

Respectfully submitted,

D. W. BURNHAM,	} School Board.
